MAN IN DOCK OVER FIREARMS CHARGES

Police seize deadly automatic sub-machine gun during operation

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A CROUCH End man has been sent for trial on drugs and firearms charges including possession of a deadly automatic sub-machine gun.

Tristen Asallani, 28, of Avenue Road, appeared at Wimbledon magistrates' court with two others last Wednesday.

It followed a pre-planned operation the previous day by the Metropolitan Police's Organised Crime Command.

During the operation detectives attempted to stop a vehicle in Park Road, Crouch End. It allegedly failed to stop and crashed into a shop front. Nobody was injured.

Asallani is accused of possessing two prohibited weapons – a Skorpion machine gun and ammunition and a “taser” stun gun – as well as charges of conspiracy to supply cocaine and dangerous driving.

Ndrim Musaj, 24, and Aber Beqal, 23, both of no fixed address, were also remanded in custody accused of conspiracy to supply cocaine.

All three are due to appear at Kingston Crown Court on February 9.

A 39-year-old man arrested on suspicion of conspiracy to supply cocaine has been bailed to a date in March.

HALF a dozen bidders have been chosen to pitch their ideas for restoring historic Hornsey Town Hall and securing its long-term future as a community asset.

Haringey Council plans to sell the landmark grade II listed 1930s' art-deco building and public square, in The Broadway, Crouch End, including land for development behind it, and is seeking a partner who will restore the town hall rent it back on a long lease.

The shortlist of six bidders was finalised last week having had their experience to deliver projects with community benefits thoroughly evaluated.

Each of them will now have to develop a more detailed bid to demonstrate their plan is financially sound, serves the community and preserves its heritage, before a preferred bidder is selected.

The council has also confirmed that ANA, which has been running the successful Hornsey Town Hall Arts Centre from the building for the past year and overseeing events at the venue is to have its lease renewed for another year.

Alan Strickland, the council's cabinet member for regeneration, said: “The level of interest and the very high quality of early operator bids underline what a tremendous opportunity Hornsey Town Hall is – and how much desire there is to see this fantastic building restored and brought back into use for future generations.”

High level of interest: Six bidders will submit plans for redeveloping Hornsey Town Hall

£1,700 fine for noisy neighbour

A NEIGHBOUR from hell who played music loudly at all hours of the day and night has been hit with a huge fine after Haringey Council prosecuted her for noise nuisance.

Rosalind Connell was ordered to pay a total of £1,700 in fines, costs and a victim surcharge when she appeared at Tottenham Magistrates' Court.

The ear-splitting din shattered the daytime peace of neighbours in Scotswood Walk, Tottenham, and caused sleepless nights.

The music was so loud that when a council officer visited a neighbour who had complained, it was impossible to have a conversation in the kitchen and too noisy to spend any time in the garden.

“We hope this case is a warning to anyone who thinks it's acceptable to show a blatant disregard for other people in their neighbourhood – it certainly is not,” said Stuart McNamara, the council's cabinet member for environment.

“Our residents are entitled to enjoy peace and quiet in their own homes and anyone who stops that from happening will face tough action.”

Back on board?

LABOUR outcast Gideon Bull is hoping to get his three-month suspension from Haringey Council's ruling Labour group lifted.

The councillor for Tottenham's White Hart Lane ward had the party whip withdrawn last Thursday after he was disciplined for breaking ranks and publicly criticising cuts by the cash-strapped council to day care centres for the elderly and disabled.

He says he intends to appeal to the London Labour Party to overturn the decision.

Anger as council consults on ditching over-65s' parking discount

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A TORY councillor is angry that the local authority is considering scrapping a discount for parking permits for elderly people.

Joanne Laban, who represents Town ward and is deputy leader of the Tory group on Enfield Council, has voiced concerns over a consultation which is seeking residents' views on whether the 50 per cent discount on the cost of a parking permit for over-65s should be axed.

The council's consultation is also asking residents for their opinions on increasing the cost of a parking permit.

The Conservative group are angry that this could see families who rely on larger cars forced to pay more.

Ms Laban, who is the opposition spokeswoman for environment, said: "The proposals that are put out to consultation are shocking."

"People deserve to be able to park outside their own home without a huge cost associated with it."

"The people who will be affected will be those with more than one car, families with large vehicles and the over-65s. The proposed axe of the 50 per cent discount for the over-65s is a U-turn on a key Labour Party manifesto commitment. This council is certainly punishing the car user with this policy."

A spokesman for the council said that the local authority was running a consultation on the issue precisely so that residents could voice their objections.

Daniel Anderson, the cabinet member for environment, said: "The controlled parking zone permit scheme, as it currently stands, makes a substantial loss and is effectively being subsidised by the local taxpayer.

"This position is no longer sustainable. The CPZ scheme needs to be self-financing and that is the primary objective of this consultation exercise."

"We want to elicit residents' views on our draft proposals before making a final decision."

The consultation can be accessed via www.enfield.gov.uk

Hitting out: Councillor Joanne Laban says the council is 'punishing' car users over the age of 65

Food for thought: Youngsters at St Edmund's Catholic Primary School in Edmonton are served lunch from the new kitchen

God bless this kitchen

PRAYERS were said at a ceremony to bless an Edmonton school's new £350,000 kitchen and dining area.

The miracle of the feeding the multitudes at St Edmund's Catholic Primary School, in Hertford Road, has been made far easier since a modern, well-equipped, multi-purpose kitchen was installed.

Parish priest Father Emmanuel Ogunaike, of the Most Precious Blood and St Edmund Church, in Hertford Road, performed the official blessing last Wednesday.

Up until November of last year the school's 300 pupils had relied on hot meals being cooked and supplied by a kitchen off the site.

The improvements have been paid for with £250,000 of government cash earmarked to provide free school meals for infant pupils, plus a £150,000 contribution between the school and the Diocese of Westminster.

"There has been an increased uptake in school meals since the kitchen was installed," said headteacher Margaret Hanley.

Traders are in the market for success

TRADERS are celebrating after their revamped market scooped a prestigious award.

Enfield Town market, which scaled up its operations last year with bright new awnings, artisan food stalls and a dedicated, covered, food hall, was awarded the best large community market accolade by the National Association of British Market Authorities at a ceremony in Birmingham last Thursday.

The market underwent the revamp after the Old Enfield Charitable Trust lost money on the venture for the first time in its history in 2013.

Accepting the award, the chairman of the Old Enfield Charitable Trust market committee, Jim Eustace congratulated the traders on their success.

Speaking after the awards ceremony, he said: "Well done for the hard work and cooperation prior to the launch of the regenerated Enfield market and the subsequent effort that has been maintained thus far by everyone involved."

"It has been satisfying to witness the marketplace full of such a variety of stalls

Happy days: Market manager Peter Matteou attracting a capacity throng of shoppers and inquisitive pedestrians. It has been an added bonus to be awarded an accolade from NABMA in recognition of our efforts."

He added that he hoped the new, high-profile market would allow the trust to highlight the charity work it does with the profits raised from pitch fees.

"There is still much to be done before we reach our finest hour," he said.

What's cooking, Mary?

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

DOMESTIC goddess Mary Berry tried her hand at some speciality baking in the borough.

The Great British Bake Off judge visited Lefteris Bakery, in Green Lanes, Palmers Green, last week to film scenes for her upcoming TV programme on what is baked and cooked in different cultures to celebrate Easter.

Speaking to the Advertiser, the bakery's director James Nicolaou said that while she was there she learned how to make traditional Greek delicacies, flaounes and tsoreki.

"They were very nice," he said, but added that she has some way to go before she is up to the standard of the bakers who have been making them every Easter for decades.

"I mean, we are a specialist bakery, our bakers have been making these things for years and Greeks and Cypriots come here because they know we're very good," said Mr Nicolaou.

There has been a bakery on the site since 1912 and it remains a family-run business to this day.

Mr Nicolaou added that as well as learning how to create the sweet treats the baking star joined in with other Greek traditions such as the breaking of eggs that had been boiled in red water.

"The colour represents the blood of Christ and breaking the eggs represents the ending, or breaking, of the Lenten fast," he explained.

So, while the bakery may not be getting a new member of staff in the form of the veteran cook, Mr Nicolaou says the current crop of bakers is more than capable of dealing with the Easter rush. "Anyone who wants to come and try some traditional Greek cakes and buns is more than welcome to come to the bakery near Easter and try out the goods for themselves," he said.

If you are a denture wearer then this article may be of some interest to you!!
If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:

DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:

- Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?
- Are they loose?
- Do not cut food as well as they used to?
- Do they make your face look older?
- Have discoloured despite meticulous cleaning or
- Cause discomfort/pain on chewing?

If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you.

My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN. Many of you may be aware of Dental Technicians/Mechanics who repair and produce dentures for dentists, however, due to recent changes in the Dental law, a group of Dental Care Professionals known as Clinical Dental Technicians have been approved by the General Dental Council and can now see denture wearers who have no natural teeth remaining, directly without having to visit a dentist.

The advantages to you, the patients, are numerous. You can be treated by a professional who has been clinically trained to undertake the impressions of your mouth and who also has the technical skill to manufacture your denture to meet your requirements.

Running out of time: Catheryn Walsh is facing the prospect of losing her car on February 8.

'I don't even know how I'll get to the tribunal'

A WOMAN with a neurological condition is preparing for a tribunal to look into a change of funding, which, she says, means she can no longer afford a mobility car.

She was assessed after benefits changed and was told she would no longer get benefits for an automatic car.

Catheryn Walsh, who lives on The Ridgeway, in Enfield, said the car, which is leased through Motability, is her lifeline and she needs it to get about.

However, as the funding is running out the car will be taken away on Monday (February 8).

Mrs Walsh was born with the neuralgic condition generalised dystonia, which, she says, has got progressively worse. She is preparing to appeal against the decision, armed with a letter from her neurologist Professor Thomas Warner, from University College Hospital, in Euston.

She took early retirement from work because of the condition.

She said: "Without the car, I don't know how I'll get to the tribunal. I can't use public transport alone."

Just before Christmas she learned that after an assessment she would no longer get the £290 a month benefit as part of the new Personal Independence Allowance.

She contacted her MP Enfield North's Joan Ryan, who wrote to the Department of Work and Pensions on her behalf.

She also went through the formal process of asking the DWP to reconsider.

Mrs Walsh has just heard that although part of her benefit will be increased it will not cover the cost of the automatic car.

She is now preparing to go to the tribunal in a bid to get the decision overturned.

Her condition means that she can get uncontrollable spasms which affect her limbs, speech and mobility.

"I have not got enough to get a car," she told the Advertiser.

She said the stress over the decision is affecting her health. Without the car she will not be able to get out and about independently, she said.

"The Motability people have been so helpful," she added. "They have given me as much time with the car as they can."

A DWP spokeswoman said: "A decision to grant the new disability benefit, Personal Independence Payment, is made following a face-to-face assessment and consideration of medical evidence provided by the claimant. Mrs Walsh was found eligible for both components of PIP."

"The majority of claimants no longer eligible for a Motability car will receive a £2,000 transitional payment to help them continue to manage their mobility needs."

Rivals trade blows over cycle scheme

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A MOVE by opposition councillors to overturn the Cycle Enfield project was defeated at a full council meeting last week.

At the meeting, held on Thursday at Enfield Civic Centre, in Silver Street, Tory group leader Terry Neville launched into an attack on plans to plough ahead with the £42million Cycle Enfield scheme that will see partially segregated cycle lanes in Palmers Green, Enfield Town and Southbury Road.

He told the chamber and packed public gallery: "We say that enhanced provision should be made away from the heavily trafficked roads, like those chosen by Labour for these schemes."

"That would provide safer, quieter and healthier cycling and it can be done, and for a fraction of the £42m we are talking about here."

However, Daniel Anderson, cabinet member for environment, who is in charge of delivering the scheme, accused the opposition benches of flip-flopping on the issue in an opportunistic bid to be seen to be taking the side of businesses opposed to changes in parking provision. He drew the council's attention to the fact that the Tory benches had given their support to the bid for the cycling money when the proposal was first mooted in 2012.

"The bid, signed by both Councillor Taylor [council leader] and Councillor Lavender [then Tory group leader], initiated by Councillor Bond [then cabinet member for environment], was completely clear right from the outset about the radical change we were proposing to the borough's infrastructure and a vision of a better Enfield," he said.

"But now Councillor Neville has the audacity to do a complete volte face."

After extending the time for opposition business twice so that almost every councillor had their say in a two-hour debate, the motion to throw out the current scheme was defeated by 34 votes to 19.

Speaking while the councillors traded blows, Robert Taylor, the secretary of the Federation of Enfield Residents and Allied Associations, told the Advertiser that he had heard many defences from the council that angered him as he is representing the residents who are opposed to the scheme.

"I thought Councillor Neville's opening speech was extremely good," said Mr Taylor. "He covered the points extremely well."

The latest consultation on the Cycle Enfield scheme – in Fore Street, from Edmonton Green roundabout, is under way and will close in less than two weeks' time on February 12.

To have your say on the consultation, log on to www.cycleenfield.co.uk

The plans for this stretch of the cycleway include proposals for the Edmonton Green roundabout modelled on the Dutch practice of separating bikes from pedestrians and cars to prevent accidents.

Developers win bid to put homes on campus

Housing chief: Councillor Ahmet Oykenar

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS who have been hit hard by the housing shortage may not be thrilled at the latest application which has been approved by planning chiefs.

Enfield Council's planning committee has granted an application from a property developer to build 167 homes on the site of the former Middlesex University campus in Queensway, Ponders End.

Although the council has a target of all new developments in the borough reserving at least 40 per cent of the homes as affordable housing, the latest scheme to get the go-ahead has set aside 30 per cent of the properties for affordable sale.

And those homes are all clustered around the edge of the development closest to a large industrial site.

A report presented to councillors last week stated: "The application does not meet the core strategy requirements in terms of tenure and mix.

"The housing department would prefer to see the affordable housing moved away from the Quasar block (an industrial estate) and pepper-potted across the site."

Although the officers said they were reassured that the developer had pledged to plant landscaping around the industrial area, the report goes on to point out that the mix of just 30 per cent affordable housing falls below the 40 per cent threshold.

Additionally, the developer makes no mention in the application of how many properties will be reserved for social rented accommodation – something which the borough is in urgent need of.

The proportion of family homes also concerned the officers, who stated in the report: "While it is acknowledged that there is an established need for all types of housing, the study demonstrates an acute shortage of houses with three or more bedrooms across owner-occupier, social and private rented sectors."

Ahmet Oykenar, cabinet member for housing, said that 31 per cent of the 167 homes on the site would be classed as affordable, with 25 set aside for social rent and 27 for intermediate rent, which is classed as 20 per cent less than the market rental value.

He said that the 31 per cent proposed by the developer "could have been better" and added: "We would like to have 100 per cent affordable, but the government is determined to finish off social housing. They just want to focus on starter homes, which doesn't help us in dealing with the housing crisis."

He said the scheme had been compromised from the beginning after the government bought part of the former Middlesex University campus that had been earmarked for housing and gifted the land to a free school group.

Although the council aims for all new developments to have at least 40 per cent affordable rents, Mr Oykenar said: "We assess each proposal on a case-by-case basis and while we aim for 40 per cent affordable housing we have to be flexible on this."

£360,000 boost for checks on rogue landlords

CHECKS on rogue landlords who let slum properties have been stepped up by Enfield Council after it received £360,000 in government cash.

Additional inspections by housing and planning enforcement officers, supported by immigration and police officers, started last Thursday.

They were carried out in the same week the council discovered it had been successful with a bid for a share of £5million of funding which is being made available to local authorities to crack down on private landlords who rent out unsafe, sub-standard and overcrowded premises.

Moves include legal action to force landlords to improve properties, or face fines of up to £20,000, as well as powers to protect tenants' safety and order the destruction of outbuildings and garden sheds illegally used to house tenants.

Ahmet Oykenar, the council's cabinet member for housing and housing regeneration, said: "This new funding provides us with more resources to carry out more raids, increase inspections of property, issue more statutory notices, survey more streets and demolish sheds and dangerous prohibited buildings.

"We are cracking down on those who cause misery and despair for tenants renting in appalling conditions," he added.

We're pleased to announce that we've just won The Great British Market Award for Best Large Community Market. Thank you for your support.

Poetry in motion: Youngsters perform in front of classmates and parents during the annual competition at West Grove Primary School, in Southgate, last week

By Ruth McKee
ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

RHYME paid off for a trio of youngsters as they bagged trophies for their powers of poetic performance.

The three pupils from West Grove Primary School, in Chase Road, Southgate, came top in their categories in the annual poetry competition.

Every year, teachers pick out poems appropriate to each age group. The children are given the poems to take home and learn and have to perform in front of their classmates, who then vote on who should represent them in the grand finals.

The chosen few performed their poems last week in front of the rest of the school and the winners were plucked from among the finalists by the school's librarian and the borough's deputy mayor Bernadette Lappage.

Pupils bring words on the page to life and win prizes in primary school's annual competition

Edie Havas, 11, from year six, wowed the judges with her performance in the category for older children, with nine-year-old Juwayriah Azhary, from year four, coming top in her age group, and seven-year-old Theo Furis showing that even children in year two can impress with their powers of recall and recitation.

Speaking after the competition, headteacher Angela Campbell said that no matter what other pressures and demands the teachers have on their time, everyone in the school sees the poetry championship as a priority.

"We believe that a broad and balanced curriculum is a priority to ensure that we develop the whole child," she said.

She added that the competition had sparked the children's creativity and had brought words on the page to life for some who might struggle in engaging with literacy classes.

"It improves their confidence, their memory and their performance skills and it feeds into their love of literature and poetry because when they are given their poems, they then want to know more about their poem and they want to find more poems," explained the head.

She is a passionate advocate of the power of poetry to inspire children and help them get to grips with language, vocabulary and written expression.

"We did have a child in the finals for whom English was their second language and it shows that poetry is a great means of delivering literacy and learning skills to pupils," she added.

Jail for businessman who threatened his accountant

Crook intimidated man after he refused to cook books to save £3.6m

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A BUSINESSMAN who threatened his Edmonton accountant and two of his employees at gunpoint when he refused to cook the books to save him £3.6million a year is starting a prison sentence of more than six years.

Sebastian Mysliwiec, who ran a ventilation manufacturing business in Poland, subjected his accountant and his colleagues to a terrifying ordeal and tied one up them up when the accountant refused to submit to his demands.

Mysliwiec tried to persuade the accountant to submit false VAT invoices during a visit he made to his office in Edmonton with two colleagues in April 2014. His accountant rejected the request.

Undeterred, 40-year-old Mysliwiec made a return visit to his accountants on April 8 – and brought a gang of four others, including men carrying firearms.

He threatened the accountant and said he would be answerable for the £300,000 a month he thought he could save by submitting false VAT invoices.

The accountant still refused and Mysliwiec ordered his henchmen to threaten him and another employee at gunpoint.

He then demanded that another worker was called into the office and tied him up and assaulted him with tools he bought at a builder's warehouse in Walthamstow, east London, before stealing £10,000 in cash, iPhones, an iPad, car keys and a Polish ID card.

The accountant reported the incident to the police and Mysliwiec, from Battersea, south London, was arrested for robbery when he next arrived in the UK.

His partner, 33-year-old Monika Piatkowska, also from Battersea, who flew to the UK to be with him, arranged for a private detective to trace the families of the three victims, all of whom had links with Poland.

Together with the private eye, she approached one of the victims, who was told they knew where his family lived. He was terrified about what could happen to them and agreed to give a statement to a solicitor, withdrawing his allegations against Mysliwiec.

But he went to the police and the Flying Squad arrested Piatkowska just after she had handed the victim several thousand pounds in sterling and Polish zlotys as a payment for his role in trying to stop Mysliwiec's prosecution.

Detective Constable Ross Moultrie, of the Flying Squad, said after the case: "This couple caused immense fear and distress to their victims and huge arrogance to the UK justice system."

"Mysliwiec banked on his accountant assisting him in his criminality, but when this was refused his three victims were subject to a terrifying ordeal."

Mysliwiec pleaded guilty to robbery, blackmail and false imprisonment and was sentenced to six years and three months in jail at the Old Bailey on Friday.

Piatkowska was found guilty of conspiring to pervert the course of justice and was sentenced to two years and six months in prison.

Cult leader gets 23-year jail term

Accused raped and sexually assaulted followers and kept daughter a prisoner in her own home

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A MAN who imprisoned his own daughter and raped two members of his communist cult has been sentenced to spend 23 years behind bars.

Aravindan Balakrishnan, 75, of Latymer Road Edmonton, was found guilty in December of sex assaults on two acolytes of the Maoist communist cult which he founded in south London in the 1970s.

He was also found guilty of keeping his own daughter imprisoned in the collective, which he controlled from the moment of her birth to her escape 30 years later in 2013.

The truth of what had gone on in the various houses occupied by the shadowy cult only emerged after her escape was orchestrated by another woman in the collective, Josephine Herviel, who has since pledged her ongoing support to Balakrishnan.

Passing sentence on Balakrishnan at Southwark Crown Court on Friday, Judge Deborah Taylor said that he had treated the daughter he fathered by another of his followers as a "project, not a person".

The judge said: "She was unable to leave the house. She was unable to escape. Her world outside the house was confined to accompanied visits to two shops – the laundrette and a food store."

She added that in the pre-sentencing reports, Balakrishnan had been diagnosed with narcissistic personality disorder and that the doctor who examined him had found that he was "preoccupied with fantasies of power".

"You lack empathy to the extent that you are unwilling to consider the needs and feelings of others," she said.

Paying tribute to the fact that his daughter had managed to escape due to a helpline number that appeared on screen at the end of a documentary on human trafficking, Judge Taylor said: "Sometimes we feel annoyed at the helpline numbers that appear on screen. That's because we don't need them. But in this case a helpline number became a lifeline."

"That number led her to the charitable organisation that served as a means of escape for her."

As the judge finished her remarks, Josephine Herviel called out loudly from the public gallery: "This is political persecution".

Outside the courtroom she told reporters: "This is a miscarriage of justice" and Balakrishnan's wife Chanda said: "He hasn't done anything wrong, this is a frame-up".

Miss Herviel has been diagnosed with Stockholm syndrome, though she rejects the diagnosis.

Katy Morgan-Davies, Balakrishnan's daughter, who has waived anonymity protection set up by the courts, has said she has forgiven her father, despite his lack of remorse.

State-of-the-art technology will help council snare the benefit fraudsters

A HIGH-TECH initiative to counter local authority fraud is set to help Enfield Council catch benefit cheats and those who try to swindle it.

All 33 of the capital's boroughs have joined the London Counter Fraud Hub, which has been created with £430,000 of government cash.

Helped by state-of-the-art technology, the hub uses council and government data as well as commercially available sources such credit reports and works with the police, the National Crime Agency and the Chartered Institute of Public Finance and Accountancy to detect fraud and recover cash.

It will be operational at the end of the year.

Andrew Stafford, Enfield's cabinet member for finance and efficiency, said: "As councils struggle to cope with massively reduced budgets, it is more important than ever to fight fraud. This new hub will build on existing counter-fraud work to help ensure that public funding is spent on public services."

Edward Lord, chairman of the Capital Ambition Board, added: "The London Counter Fraud Hub has the potential to save local authorities significant sums of money and could prove a very good investment in the fight against fraud."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Richard Power feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done.

We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and Richard is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

OPINION

Columnist

Enfield Green Party

LONDON faces many problems, including an escalating housing crisis, chronic air pollution and – shared with everybody else – climate change.

The Green Party's candidate for Mayor of London, Sian Berry, has come up with an idea that will help with all three – scrap London City Airport and use the site for housing, schools and small businesses.

Previous columns have highlighted the 9,000-plus Londoners killed every year by air pollution and the thousands more with pollution-related health problems.

An airport in the heart of what is increasingly a residential area must be a major contributor to all that – and don't forget the debilitating effects of noise pollution, too.

For what? So businessmen can save half an hour compared to flying from Heathrow. We need to cut down on flying anyway if global warming is to be kept to the (actually quite dangerous) two degree target to which even David Cameron pays lip service.

Business flying is decreasing anyway, partly due to the increasingly sophisticated ways of teleconferencing.

Scrapping the airport would free up a substantial area of land which could be used to alleviate the shortage of affordable homes.

Controls would be necessary to ensure they weren't all snapped up by foreigners and left empty, as happens all too often under the current administration, but that would not be a problem for a Green mayor.

What's not to like? It's a win-win-win suggestion.

Don't get rid of this footbridge

I HAVE received a circular from Transport for London saying it is consulting on plans to demolish the A10 footbridge on the Great Cambridge Road next to Turkey Brook and install pedestrian crossings instead.

I live close to the A10/Turkey Brook and regularly walk or cycle this section of the Greenway.

I have cycled in Enfield for the past 30 years and know the area and the traffic situation well.

I am surprised that TfL is considering demolishing a bridge that has only just been reopened after a lengthy four months' refurbishment. In fact, historically, the bridge was actually built because a surface crossing was considered to be too dangerous.

Although I understand the desire to enhance the accessibility of the Greenway to cyclists from east to west, I do have major concerns about this.

Any time of day, along this stretch of the A10 between the Halfway House/Carterhatch Lane junction and Bulls-moor Lane, you will see traffic in both directions regularly exceeding the speed limit. By the time vehicles reach the proposed crossing point they are going so fast that I very much doubt they will all slow down or stop in time for crossing users.

I would be very sorry to have this crossing installed only for there to be serious accidents as a result.

Would it not be possible (and cheaper) to provide suitable signage and cycle track markings to divert cyclists the very short distance to the nearby subway, which is the route I and all other cyclists currently take?

Ill-thought-out scheme is the road to madness

IT gives me no pleasure in writing this, I am a resident of Enfield who uses all types of transport and I am really mystified by Enfield Council as it has become quite clear that the voting for the cycleway scheme was flawed.

The voting was open countryside so that non-residents of Enfield could cast their vote. The online consultation form had ambiguous questions set in a complicated format.

When I spoke with representatives at The Fox and the Dugdale Centre, I came away with the impression that they were not interested in anything other than their own opinions.

MP David Burrowes set up a separate poll for residents of the affected area, the A105 from Enfield Town to the North Circular Road, and more than 75 per cent of the verified residents who voted were against the introduction of the cycleway.

We are now more aware of the pitfalls for the residents and businesses alike. This scheme has not been well-thought-out as it will cause cyclists and pedestrians, especially bus passengers, to come into conflict.

Added to that as a retired front-line paramedic, I can assure you that any obstruction will slow down response times for all emergency services which will especially be the case with tabletop humps for ambulances with patients on board.

The Enfield Town scheme, although there were four options originally, now

'Silent majority'

THREE months ago, Daniel Anderson, Enfield Council's chief advocate for a network of cycle superhighways, told us: "The silent majority have spoken and shown they like our plans, despite a vocal campaign which has been spreading disinformation about what the proposals would mean."

Then, just 624 residents, responding to a council consultation for the scheme along the A105, said they supported the scheme that will cause gridlock across the borough and woe for bus passengers and pedestrians, especially the elderly and disabled.

The council had been reluctant to announce the result of its consultation gives two which are basically the same.

We are not against cyclists, but it must be safety for all residents and what we will end up with is an extremely congested fume-filled town if the council and TfL continue down this road to madness.

John Jewson
Bush Hill Park

'don't want this

on another part of the scheme that will result in the virtual exclusion from the town centre of all private and commercial passenger vehicles.

Then it said: "A fantastic response saw over 3,400 people participating in the recent Enfield Town and Southbury Road Cycle Enfield consultations". Finally, with pressure piling up against it, the council has been forced to admit that 2,443 residents opposed the scheme in Enfield Town.

It seems to me that, in terms of percentages, the result is not dissimilar to MP David Burrowes's referendum in the affected part of his own constituency that saw 75 per cent of residents opposing the scheme, which Mr Anderson castigated as a "sham".

Quite clearly, the silent majority have now spoken and, by a wide margin, they do not want this ridiculous scheme to proceed.

Thanks for a timely reminder

ENFIELD Council is to be commended for a yearly reminder of the Holocaust and other atrocities.

The theme this year at the Dugdale Centre, in Enfield Town, was Don't Stand By with contributions from Enfield councillors, two rabbis and Hazelbury and Southgate schools.

Graphic accounts were detailed of people who helped persecuted Jewish people during the last war.

Speaking to the person in charge of organising this event, I congratulated him on this interesting meeting and kindly offered some suggestions, one of which was: "Why not have a minute's silence for individual prayer, for help and comfort for these people?"

Devolution plans in the pipeline

NOW that the government has passed the NHS and Local Council Devolution Bill, Enfield, Barnet, Camden, Haringey and Islington NHS services will link up to work together and local councils will link up later to work together on the map. This is called the Greater London Plan.

It remains my view that a new site is needed for a completely new Enfield general hospital.

Also, the government must abolish all NHS general and mental health trusts in England.

The £30million cycle plan must be put on hold in Enfield as the council will be part of a larger council.

Waiting for reply

IS it a policy of Enfield Council not to respond to emails sent by residents?

Emails I have sent to both an elected councillor in the Jubilee ward and to the leader of the council never get acknowledged let alone answered.

Is that any way to treat residents who elected them?

CHARITY COMPETITION

Time to nominate worthy charities

WORTHY causes throughout Enfield have found it tough to make ends meet in recent years – which is why we're teaming up with mobile phone provider Vodafone to offer them a chance to win a whopping £1,000 grant.

The Vodafone Community Connection Award is a nationwide initiative which seeks to bolster the valuable work undertaken by charities within the community.

In order to make this happen, we need nominations from the Enfield charity which most deserves to benefit from this money.

The winner could be a soup kitchen which needs money for a new oven or a Scout group in need of new uniforms, for example – it's up to you.

However, they must meet several criteria:

□ They should be a local charity which makes a significant impact on the Enfield community.

□ The award cannot be in respect of a personal or individual plight, nor a government-funded organisation such as a school.

□ The award must also be for a specific project or purpose, rather than just to cover operating costs.

□ The award must be stand-alone rather than forming any part of a larger contribution or bigger appeal.

□ Nominees must have a registered charity number.

Advertiser editor Mick Ferris said: "Charities throughout the Enfield borough play a vital role within our community and we are delighted to be involved in an initiative which will offer one of them a big, thoroughly deserved financial boost."

Mohammed Uddin, manager of the Vodafone Store in Church Street, Enfield Town, said: "We're delighted to team up with the Advertiser to offer a Vodafone Community Connection Award in Enfield. We're keen to play our part as members of the local community and we know there are some really deserving causes out there, working hard to make a difference – we hope they will put themselves forward."

Over the coming weeks, we'll be reminding you of your chance to nominate your favourite charities and looking at some of the nominations which we have had so far.

Nominations should be emailed to us at competitions@nlhnews.co.uk, with Vodafone in the subject line, together with contact details for the charity concerned and its registered charity number. Alternatively, send them to: Vodafone Community Connection Award, North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT.

The closing date for nominations is 4pm on Thursday, March 3.

Son's hospital fundraiser in memory of his father

By Julia Gregoryjulia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk*

BUSINESSMAN Gordhan Gadher spent much of his life helping others and even set up his own charity to help alleviate poverty and sickness in India.

"He was the kind of character that if anyone needed to help he always helped them out," said his son Manoj. "He had the upbringing that you think of other people."

So when Mr Gadher, of Hedge Lane, Palmers Green, became ill with lymphoma cancer it was natural that property developer Manoj wanted to help other patients.

He raised £18,000 in his father's memory for patients who were suffering the same side-effects from their treatment and is handing over enough money this month to buy a revolutionary machine.

His 80-year-old father was treated at North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, and was later transferred to the Royal Free Hospital, in Hampstead.

Manoj said: "He had to go for dialysis and I noticed that he, alongside other patients, would return from dialysis in a state of confusion not knowing where or who they were."

This was caused, he said, by the amount of fluid removed during dialysis and sometimes his father's chest would fill up if not enough fluid was removed.

He said that a drain was fitted to remove the fluid, but his father would become confused and pull it out, so had to undergo more surgery for it to be refitted.

After his father's death in April last year, Manoj asked medical staff why this happened.

He said: "I was told that they needed a bioimpedance machine, which would pass a current through the body and during dialysis to tell them exactly how much fluid should be removed."

He decided to raise the £10,000 needed to buy a machine for the Royal Free and set up a website.

Manoj, of Bourne Hill, Palmers Green, said: "I had little cards printed and sent them out to people my father knew, they went out to friends, family and work colleagues."

Their generosity meant that Manoj, 45, has been able to buy the equipment the hospital needed and donate a further £8,000 to Cancer Research UK, Macmillan Cancer, the Lymphoma Association and Trinity Hospice, in Clapham, south-west London.

His father set up Supreme Food and Wines, in Seven Sisters Road, Tottenham, before retiring in 1995 and running a property business.

He also set up the Balvima charity and helped people in India, Africa and Indonesia.

Manoj estimated that his father donated hundreds of thousands of pounds to charity.

Coming down: Chase Farm Hospital's maternity wing is being demolished; left, an artist's impression of the new building

Chase Farm rebuild gets the go-ahead

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE new Chase Farm Hospital will soon be emerging out of the rubble of the former maternity and A&E units after the council gave the green light to plans to build a five-storey hospital on the site.

The Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust is one step closer to realising its ambition of building a new hospital on the site, in The Ridgeway, Enfield.

As the wrecking ball tore through the maternity ward, which closed in 2013 after a campaign to save the unit fell on deaf ears, council chiefs signed off on the latest planning application from the Royal Free trust, paving the way for a brand new building to replace it.

The facility will have less floor space than the current hospital as the trust wants to bring all wards under one roof after years of piecemeal expansion saw the facilities spread into small, fragmented wards spread across the site.

The Royal Free trust had pledged that the new hospital would have a minimum of 25,000 square metres of floor space and although the latest planning application for the new building comes in at 24,066 square metres planning committee councillors accepted the bid last week.

The committee approved the application to build a five-storey hospital building, a new three-storey energy building and a complete refurbishment of the Highlands Wing, which the trust is currently committed to keeping.

The multi-storey car park will also remain in place and the land that will be cleared by the demolition of other buildings will be used to build 500 new homes and a new primary school.

A report presented to councillors about the trust's bid detailed objections from residents relating to increased congestion and lack of amenities for those who will be living in the new development – but the committee was advised they could not be taken into account as they did not relate to the specifics of this part of the planning process.

David Sloman, the Royal Free trust's chief executive, said: "We are delighted with the planning committee's decision to approve our application. We have worked closely with commissioners and clinicians to ensure that the design improves patient accessibility, enhances our expansion capability and provides real value for money."

Construction work on the new hospital is due to begin in the spring.

Four rescued from fire at flats

FOUR people were rescued by firefighters from a blaze at a block of flats in Edmonton last week.

A woman on the second floor of the three-storey building in Plowman Close was helped to safety by firefighters wearing breathing apparatus

They also rescued a man from the first floor and two other women from a flat on the ground floor.

Another man left a ground-floor flat before fire crews arrived. The three women and two men were treated at the scene for smoke inhalation by ambulance crews.

More than 20 firefighters from four engines from Edmonton and Tottenham stations tackled the blaze, which took an hour to bring under control on Wednesday evening.

The cause of the blaze is being investigated by the Metropolitan Police and the fire brigade.

Tribute: Hazelbury Junior School pupils performed Into The Arms of Others, a dance piece about the Kindertransport (left)

Pupils pay their tributes Holocaust survivors

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

CHILDREN from an Edmonton school performed a moving dance in tribute to the 10,000 children who escaped the Nazi regime on the Kindertransport.

The youngsters from Hazelbury Junior School in Haselbury Road, took to the stage at the Dugdale Centre, in London Road, Enfield Town, as part of this year's Holocaust Memorial Day events.

Their dance, entitled Into the Arms of Others, commemorated the thousands of children from Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland and the "free city" of Danzig who came to Britain on the Kindertransport before the start of World War II.

It was the last time many of them ever saw their families, who became victims of the Nazi genocide which claimed the lives of millions.

The theme of this year's event was Don't Stand By, and students from Southgate School, in Sussex Way, Cockfosters, recounted the life stories of people who decided to take a stand.

Tom Knowles shared the story of Sir Nicholas Winton, the stockbroker who arranged trains to get children out of Czechoslovakia.

Another pupil Elise Hellyer talked about Raphael Lemkin, a Polish Jewish lawyer who coined the term genocide and was involved in the Nuremberg trials which prosecuted Nazis for war crimes.

The event marked 71 years since Russian troops liberated the Auschwitz-Birkenau death camp in Poland in 1945.

The gathering last Wednesday also heard from Rabbi Yuval Keren, from the Southgate Progressive Synagogue, in Chase Road, and Rabbi Emanuel Levy, from the Palmers Green and Southgate Synagogue, in Brownlow Road.

A book with the word "Jew" printed six million times reminded the congregation of the number of Jewish victims of the Nazis.

The congregation was also shown a film about the genocide in Darfur, in Sudan, which began in 2003.

Survivor: Tom Van Langenberg, from Southgate School, talks about the life of Rudolph Vrba, who escaped from Auschwitz in 1944

New Primary Schools For Enfield

Chase Farm and Grovelands Areas

The Lime Trust would like to open new Primary Schools (with nursery provision) in September 2017.

The schools will increase parental choice where there is a growing need for additional primary school places. A site has not yet been agreed.

We are consulting with the local community prior to submitting our proposal to the DFE and would appreciate your views.

The consultation process will culminate with open events on the 22 February in the Executive Suite, Dugdale Centre, 39 London Road, Enfield EN2 6DS.

Meetings are scheduled for 10.30, 13.30 & 18.30.
Please pop along to find out more.

Alternatively, complete our consultation questionnaire via our website, or email us to get in touch.

EDUCATION FOR LIFE 2016

ADVERTISEMENT FEATURE

FROM NURSERY TO PREPARATION FOR 11+ A STIMULATING CURRICULUM, INSTILLING A SENSE OF DUTY AND INGRAINED CONFIDENCE

Grange Park Prep School is a happy and successful school that provides a stimulating educational experience for girls between the ages of 3 - 11.

Each child is known individually by all staff and a strong parent/school partnership ensures a thriving and proactive environment which is evident from Nursery. Children joining the school engage in a stimulating curriculum including art, dance and drama, music, French and P E with dedicated teaching specialists.

In Key Stage 2 preparation for 11+ state selective and independent secondary schools starts from as early as Year 3, where girls undertake verbal and non-verbal reasoning as part of the curriculum. In addition in Year 5, girls wishing to sit for selective schools, attend extra prep classes after school, thus equipping them with the tools to achieve their maximum potential in terms of academic attainment.

The Governors of GPPS are committed to maintaining small classes which are taught by excellent staff, with specialist teaching in English, maths, French, Dance and Drama, Music and PE.

Girls enjoy a very busy school life, and benefit from an excellent variety of extra curricular activities, including LAMDA, horse riding and chess, further enriching their experience and creating lifetime memories.

Before leaving GPPS every girl will have been given a responsible role at some level, instilling in them a sense of duty and ingrained confidence, preparing them for today's challenges.

KEBLE SCHOOL

Keble is pleased to offer
ALL-ROUNDER BURSARIES
for boys joining Year 3 in September

Keble School is a small, friendly and caring prep school located in Winchmore Hill. We are offering bursaries of up to 100% of fees for boys who can be considered good "all-rounders". We provide a broad curriculum and the intention is to offer places to boys from families who could not normally afford independent education.

The bursaries will be means tested and subject to entrance exams and an interview.

Merry prankster brings scathing satire to town

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

VETERAN comedian and campaigner Mark Thomas has made a career out of poking fun at and playing pranks on the powers-that-be.

Officialdom, the Establishment, big business, the arms trade, governments, politicians, religions, the rich and powerful, and even estate agents, are all targets for his brand of satirical and subversive humour.

Exposing corruption, excesses, greed, hypocrisy and daft red tape are what this "mischief maker" does best, using laughter to get the audience to reflect on the morality and injustice of it all.

He brings his latest monologue, Trespass, to artsdepot, in Finchley, tomorrow (Thursday) evening.

No stranger to the long arm of the law – having been arrested too many times to remember – some of his public stunts and protests over the years are memorable, including the time he posed as a public relations consultant at an arms fair and managed to convince foreign generals to admit torture and human rights abuses for his Channel 4 TV show.

In Trespass he turns his attention to creeping privatisation of public spaces – from communal spaces, to playing fields and public rights of way – and recounts in clips on a giant screen behind him some of his recent exploits, among them how he set up human-sized "beggar cages" around the city of Oxford with the doors propped open with a stick and string to highlight tough new powers approved by the council to fine beggars £100.

Classic sitcom hard act to follow

DAD'S ARMY (PG, 100 mins)

HOW do you improve on the perfection of Jimmy Perry and David Croft's sitcom Dad's Army, which began active service in 1968 and remains a jewel in the crown of the BBC comedy archives?

The answer is, you don't.

If you're director Oliver Parker and screenwriter Hamish McColl, you pepper a flimsy plot that would barely stretch to one TV episode let alone 100 minutes with the show's catchphrases and pray that our abiding affection for the characters will compensate for long passages without a discernible punchline.

Original cast members Ian Lavender and Frank Williams are conscripted to cameo roles to heighten the whiff of nostalgia.

Limp innuendo-laden banter about sausages barely merits a smirk, pratfalls are predictable and a terrific ensemble cast of gifted comic actors go on patrol without an arsenal of decent one-liners.

From uninspired beginning to muddled end, it's a cultural smash'n'grab that goes through the motions and will ultimately be remembered as a badly missed opportunity.

England, 1944. World War II is on a knife edge and in the cosy community of Walmington-on-Sea, blustering bank manager George Mainwaring (Toby Jones) proudly leads the local Home Guard.

His hapless rank and file includes Sergeant Wilson (Bill Nighy), Lance Corporal Jones (Tom Courtenay) and Privates Frazer (Bill Paterson), Pike (Blake Harrison),

On the march: Toby Jones and Bill Nighy lead the Home Guard through Walmington-on-Sea

Walker (Daniel Mays) and Godfrey (Michael Gambon), a mild-mannered soul who frequently drifts off into his own world.

Their fate hangs in the balance when Colonel Theakes (Mark Gatiss) reveals that he intends to sort the military wheat from the chaff and "Walmington feels chaffy".

Soon after, Mainwaring learns that a German spy has infiltrated the town and is transmitting secrets back to Berlin.

The search for a traitor coincides with the arrival of glamorous magazine writer Rose Winters (Catherine Zeta-Jones), who intends to pen a flattering article about the heroics of the Home Guard. George is smitten and finds Rose most charming and agreeable.

"They said that about the Ripper," coldly retorts Mrs Mainwaring (Felicity Montagu), hard-nosed leader of Walmington-on-Sea's women's auxiliary army, which includes Pike's mother (Sarah Lancashire) and Walker's sweetheart Daphne (Emily Atack).

Dad's Army opens with a limp set piece involving a stand-off between the Home Guard and runaway livestock.

"We're supposed to be locking horns with the Hun, not Bertie the bull!" despairs one of the men, echoing our mounting frustration. Jones lightens the darkening mood with a few moments of physical humour, including choking on a slice of cake, while Nighy relies on his usual snorts and tics for merriment.

Montagu, Lancashire and Co bring a diluted degree of girl power to proceedings that might be dismissed as tokenism without their characters' pivotal involvement in the hare-brained and lacklustre denouement.

LOMBARD ESTATES BACK IN BUSINESS AFTER BLAZE

Lombard Estates have been up and running for over 10 years in the Ponders End Area with our connections to the local people being one of our strongest assets. In May of 2014, a fire erupted in one of the neighbouring businesses next to our office, setting ablaze our shop as well as the flats above. Despite not being in the office on the high street, this didn't hold us back, as in the midst of the chaos that embodied Ponders End High Street, we refused to stay down and continued to work from private offices. Our team were dedicating themselves to ensuring our tenants and landlords remained taken care of with our dedicated staff working endlessly to maintain our long term valued relationships.

Since the beginning of October 2015 we have been back on the High street, stronger than ever, with new and old customers joining us, we continue to grow and evolve with the local people and the property markets.

(We now have first hand experience at what could be considered as a worst case scenario that any of our clients can expect, but Like the mythical Phoenix bird, Lombard Estates re-birthed itself from the ashes of the past, Creating a new office and a new outlook on the way we conduct business in the future.)

Our purpose as a company is to serve our community in the best way possible. We serve with honour.

If you have any sales or lettings enquiries please do not hesitate to contact us on 020 8804 3666 Web: www.Lombardestates.com

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1969.
2. Classified Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed "Trade Advertisers", and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
3. Any copy which is forwarded or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser, 4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
5. Where shrinkage of advertisements or for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect version. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
8. All gross advertising rates (except classified line and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
10. Should the price for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer. (1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
- (2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement. The advertiser shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
15. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
16. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.
17. All enquiries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
18. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

DEMBELE SIGNS NEW CONTRACT

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

THE transfer window came to a quiet ending at Tottenham Hotspur on Monday, with the club deciding against bolstering their squad by bringing in any new faces.

Spurs had reportedly been interested in signing a new striker to provide back-up for Harry Kane, but ultimately chose to keep faith with the group of players who have performed well so far this season.

However, central defender Federico Fazio has joined winger Andros Townsend – who signed for Newcastle United last week – in leaving Spurs after moving to Spanish side Sevilla on loan for the rest of the season.

Meanwhile, Mousa Dembele has expressed his delight after signing a new contract which will keep him at White Hart Lane until 2019.

The Belgian international midfielder has made 143 appearances since joining Tottenham from Fulham in 2012 and is hoping to play his part in helping the club to continue the progress they have made this season.

“When I heard that the club wanted to extend my contract I was very happy,” he said. “I’ve signed and I’m happy to be part of the future – and I know it’s going to be a bright future.

“The way we’re playing, the way the club is developing, everything is very good and everyone wants to be part of this team and this club. That’s why I’m proud to extend my contract.

“It’s very positive to sign and we all have the feeling that the club is going to go even further upwards. I’m very happy with my season at the moment, but the season is still long and teams are playing well.

“We want to achieve something. We need to keep winning and at the end of the season I hope we have even more positive talk than at the moment. We have goals and aims and we haven’t achieved those yet.”

Dembele added: “Everyone is down to earth and we realise that we’re doing well and we’re winning games that normally perhaps before weren’t that easy for us. That’s positive and we need to continue taking this positivity into the next games.”

Spurs ensured that they are still challenging on three fronts after booking their place in the fifth round of the FA Cup with a resounding 4-1 win at Colchester United on Saturday, and Eric Dier – who was among the scorers in the match – was delighted with the outcome.

“We knew that we had to be at it from the off because teams like Colchester can make it hard for you,” he said. “Maybe we were a little sloppy at times, but we had the right attitude and came out comfortable winners. It’s a great competition and we’re happy to be in the next round and still in three competitions.

“There was pressure from the beginning of the season, and obviously with us being up there and fighting for everything there will be added pressure, but we’re all enjoying ourselves at the moment.

“I don’t think we play with pressure, we enjoy ourselves and we play freely. We’re a young team, we express ourselves, and hopefully we’ll continue to do that.”

Staying put: Mousa Dembele has committed his future to Tottenham by signing a new deal with the club

A disappointing conclusion for the Skolars

THE London Skolars conceded three tries in the last ten minutes as they suffered a 28-20 defeat in their pre-season friendly at home to a young London Broncos side on Saturday.

The Skolars led for most of the second half against an inexperienced Broncos side that featured mainly under-19 and scholarship players – with Elliott Kear, Toby Everett and Jon Magrin the only first-team squad members involved – but were unable to hold on as they fell away badly in the closing stages.

“It was disappointing not to back up the performance we produced against Wigan the week before,” said head coach Jermaine Coleman. “With the ball in hand we scored some nice tries and we were more clinical than we had been against Wigan.

“But our line-speed in defence and wrestle at the tackle were poor. However, it is pre-season and we still have time to sort things out.”

The hosts were unable to translate early pressure into any points, and they were to pay as the Broncos broke the deadlock when Gideon Bofo touched down in the corner for a try which Dan Welldon converted.

Bofo added a second try for the visitors before the Skolars hit back as Jimmy Morgan grabbed two tries in quick succession – with Charlie Lawrence converting the second try to level the scores.

Sam Druce then forced his way through the defence to touch down and put the hosts in front shortly before half-time, and victory looked assured when Lameck Juma crossed the line with 15 minutes remaining.

However, good work from Kear and Welldon presented Rob Butler with the opportunity to touch down on 70 minutes and get the Broncos back into the match.

And the visitors then took control as Bofo completed his hat-trick in the 74th minute before Jordan Williams made sure of their victory by grabbing a try in the last minute.

The London Skolars begin their campaign in rugby league’s Kingstone Press Championship One with a trip to York City Knights on March 6.

Ten-man Borough pick up a point

HARINGEY BOROUGH had to make do with a point on Saturday as their clash at Tilbury in Ryman League Division One North ended in a 0-0 draw.

A heavy pitch made life difficult for the players, with clear-cut chances at a premium throughout the contest.

Borough began brightly and Anthony MacDonald went close inside three minutes before Ashley Taylor-Forbes should have done better when he fired over after getting behind the home defence.

But Tilbury gradually began to work their way into the match and Jack Carlile saw his shot crash against the bar on 11 minutes, while Ross Elsom threatened with a volley from a Matt Game cross seven minutes later.

There was little more incident of note prior to the interval, but the hosts went close just before half-time when Kurt Smith’s free-kick brought a good save out of keeper Ashley Harris.

The start of the second period saw both teams lose their discipline, and Borough were made to pay for this as Rakim Richards – who had already been booked – collected a straight red card.

Despite their numerical disadvantage, the visitors were able to hold firm for the remainder of the contest as they produced a stubborn defensive display to keep Tilbury at bay.

The hosts did try to pile on the pressure in the closing stages, but a late Tony Martin shot which missed the target from eight yards out was the only real opportunity that they created as the match ended all square.

Haringey Borough, who lie 19th in the table, will be hoping to play their first home game in two months when they are due to host Romford on Saturday (3pm).
